Great Selection and Quality

The U.S. General Services Administration (GSA) is the federal agency that buys new vehicles and leases them to other federal agencies. When a vehicle's leasing period ends, we sell it to the public. GSA Fleet auction vehicles have been used by government agencies for ordinary transportation purposes. None of the vehicles are military or repossessed vehicles; these vehicles are clean, detailed, and ready for you to drive home.

How You Can Buy from GSA Fleet Vehicle Sales

Who can attend?

GSA Fleet vehicle sales are open to all members of the public. Some auction locations may display signage prohibiting public attendance. Please ignore these signs; they do not apply to GSA Fleet auctions.

What should I know before attending an auction?

Find an auction near you at <https://autoauctions.gsa.gov>. Read the terms and conditions of GSA Fleet sales completely before attending our auction. Make sure you have the accepted form of payment to pay for the vehicle immediately.

What do I do once I am at the auction?

The day of the sale, you can register for the sale and use the inventory list to inspect vehicles on the lot at the auction location. You may start the vehicle, but driving is not allowed. To register, you must be at least 18 years of age, provide a valid social security or taxpayer ID number, and must not be in debt to the U.S. government or be on the excluded parties list system.

Can I bid on more than one vehicle?

To increase your chance of a successful bid, review and select several vehicles you would want to bid on. Often several vehicles with the same make and model are being auctioned on the same day.

How do I pay?

Multiple payment options are available at most auction locations. Typically buyers pay with credit or debit card, cashier's check or money order. Ask the auction location what methods of payment are accepted.

How do I Bid for Live Sales?

Contact an auction location to register for a live sale or request to attend the auction online via Concurrent Live Broadcast. A list of auction locations can be found while searching for vehicles at <https://autoauctions.gsa.gov>.

How do I Bid for Internet Sales?

Internet sale vehicles will display a "Bid Now" hyperlink on the <https://autoauctions.gsa.gov> website.
